

Image Courtesy of the Lewis Walpole Library

Eighteenth-Century Gothick Symposium

University of Oxford
7 August 2013

The Gothick Revival in eighteenth-century Britain is a multi-faceted phenomenon, simultaneously liminal and mainstream, historical and modern, whimsical and serious.

This one-day symposium seeks to explore the revival's many dimensions. Proposals are invited for 20-minute papers that address any aspect of the revival, and may include:

- *architecture and interiors
- *furniture
- *antiquarianism
- *restoration
- *history

- *medievalism
- *patronage
- *politics
- *sexuality
- *literature

Please email 250-word proposals to the symposium organisers, Oliver Cox and Peter Lindfield, by 31 May 2013, at 18thCenturyGothick@gmail.com
18thcenturygothick.wordpress.com